

Saver's tax credit guide

10% to 50% credit when you save for retirement

Like store discounts reward you for buying, this tax credit rewards you for saving

A store sometimes offers a discount for buying clothing, food or other items. Likewise, the government gives discounts when you save for retirement if you are within a certain income range and meet other eligibility requirements.*

Called the Saver's Tax Credit, this discount applies to the first $2,000 ($4,000 for married couples) you contribute to a retirement plan. See the table below to see if you qualify.

An example

Monica, a single adult, filing her 2018 taxes

Annual salary: $25,000 a year

Contribution to retirement plan: $1,500 ($29/week)

Tax credit from IRS: 10% discount on her tax return

Benefit: $150 kept in her pocket rather than paid in federal taxes

2018 income levels

Joint Filers	Heads of Household	All other Filers	Credit Rate
$0 - $38,000	$0 - $28,500	$0 - $19,000	50%
$38,001 - $41,000	$28,501 - $30,750	$19,001 - $20,500	20%
$41,001 - $63,000	$30,751 - $47,250	$20,501 - $31,500	10%
Over $63,000	Over $47,250	Over $31,500	0%

How to receive your tax credit

If you meet the income guidelines, take five minutes to fill out the Tax Form 8880, Credit for Qualified Retirement Savings Contributions. Then send this completed form with your regular tax forms when you file your taxes for 2018. Congratulations! You're done.

Plan now

Save more in 2019 and take advantage of the tax credit in the future.
