community and excellence

Sponsorship opportunities

What is Stewardship University?

Founded on holistic stewardship principles, Everence® Stewardship University is a dynamic, nationally acclaimed educational event that teaches people how to manage all of their God-given gifts.

Each informal gathering presents cutting-edge workshops led by stewardship educators. Topics may include time management, budgeting, relationships, health, talent, business, aging, the gospel and more.

People come for knowledge. But they leave with knowledge and the tools to put it to work in their lives.

How can you help?

Your support helps us meet a simple but very important goal: keeping Stewardship University affordable so that anyone who wants to attend can do so. To meet that objective, Everence partners with local business owners and leaders of non-profit organizations who support this valuable – and often life-changing – ministry.

We invite you to join Everence and your local faith community in presenting Stewardship University to your friends, neighbors, customers – and potential customers.

Why should you help?

The obvious reasons? You'll get exposure. With potential recognition in our event guide, registration brochure and even social media to name a few, your generosity will be noticed by those most likely to become your clients or customers.

The less tangible reason – but perhaps more important? Your support positions your organization as a responsible corporate citizen. The public sees your organization as committed to helping people learn, grow and cultivate their God-given gifts. That's a powerful corporate image in itself.
